DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:
 - I. Claims 1-26, drawn to a system, a terminal device, a control method, a non-transitory computer readable storage medium, comprising steps to creating a plurality of the routes to the first communication terminal and storing and managing the plurality of routes, classified in class 370, subclass 328.
 - II. Claims 27-43, drawn to a system, a terminal device, a control method, a non-transitory computer readable storage medium, comprising steps of detecting a possible disconnection state in terms of a disconnection symptom for communication on the routes and notifying the possible disconnection state, classified in class 370, subclass 351.

2. The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Inventions I and II related as subcombinations disclosed as usable together in a single combination. The subcombinations are distinct from each other if they are shown to be separately usable. In the instant case, invention I have separate utility such as creating the plurality of routes based upon reception of the message and determination that the message was not previously received, broadcasting the message to each terminal in communication with the communication terminal device. Invention II has separate utility such as notifying a possible disconnection state in terms of a disconnection symptom for communication on a first route upstream of the message and generating the message using a creation condition according to a second route other than the first route matching the possible disconnection state and originating the message. See MPEP § 806.05(d).

In the instant case, the invention of group I as claimed recites of establishing one of the plurality of routes as a communication route and communicating with the first communication terminal via the communication route wherein switches the communication route to any of the plurality of routes depending on needs whereas invention of group II as claimed recites a method for detecting a possible disconnection state in terms of a disconnection symptom for communication on a first route as an upstream side for the message and notifying the possible disconnection state detected by the first step to the first communication terminal. The two inventions have mutually exclusive features as stated, can have material different design, mode of operation, function, or effect, and do not overlap in scope due to the mutually exclusive features. Furthermore, the inventions as claimed do not encompass overlapping subject matter and there is nothing of record to show them to be obvious variants.

Conclusion

3. The examiner has required restriction between product and process claims. Where applicant elects claims directed to the product, and the product claims are subsequently found allowable, withdrawn process claims that depend from or otherwise require all the limitations of the allowable product claim will be considered for rejoinder. All claims directed to a nonelected process invention must require all the limitations of an allowable product claim for that process invention to be rejoined.

In the event of rejoinder, the requirement for restriction between the product claims and the rejoined process claims will be withdrawn, and the rejoined process claims will be fully examined for patentability in accordance with 37 CFR 1.104. Thus, to be allowable, the rejoined claims must meet all criteria for patentability including the requirements of 35 U.S.C. 101, 102, 103 and 112. Until all claims to the elected product are found allowable, an otherwise proper restriction requirement between product claims and process claims may be maintained.

Withdrawn process claims that are not commensurate in scope with an allowable product claim will not be rejoined. See MPEP § 821.04(b). Additionally, in order to retain the right to rejoinder in accordance with the above policy, applicant is advised that the process claims should be amended during prosecution to require the limitations of the product claims. Failure to do so may result in a loss of the right to rejoinder. Further, note that the prohibition against double patenting rejections of 35 U.S.C. 121 does not apply where the restriction requirement is withdrawn by the examiner before the patent issues. See MPEP § 804.01.
